WEBSITE PRIVACY STATEMENT

The Interlocking Concrete Pavement Institute (“ICPI”) respects your privacy as a user of its website. We will make every reasonable effort to ensure that any personal information you provide to us is used only for the purposes stated below. While the policy presented here concentrates on information collected by the ICPI website, it also applies to personal information submitted by other means (mail, fax, e-mail, telephone, sign-up sheets, and so on).

PERSONAL INFORMATION COLLECTED

Several areas of the ICPI website require that you send us personal information:

- Membership application
- Subscriber information
- Users of Tech Spec technical bulletins, guide specs, and detail drawings
- On-line publication and product purchases
- Certified Concrete Paver Installer information
- Certified Concrete Paver Manufacturer information

This information is received offline as well by mail, fax and telephone. ICPI uses the demographic and professional information collected on membership and other forms for aggregate analysis, to personalize our member records for better service, and to create targeted mailing lists for promotion of technical resources, educational seminars, and publications.

In addition to the primary purpose stated or implied at the time the information is collected, we may also use your postal mailing address to send you information about ICPI programs, publications, surveys, etc. We also make our member data available to companies offering ICPI member benefits and to other responsible third parties. If you supply an e-mail address, we use to confirm your order, follow up on a request, etc. as the context determines. We may also use it to keep you informed about ICPI programs, publications and initiatives. On occasion we may use your e-mail address for a purpose indirectly related to the original context (e.g. e-mailing a customer satisfaction survey to those who have made purchases from the ICPI online publication service). Except as stated above, ICPI does not make its e-mail lists available to any third party. If you are not an ICPI member, you can opt out of ICPI's reuse of your e-mail address by filling out an online form or by calling 1-202-712-9036. ICPI Members: See the Section Below.

ICPI MEMBERS

Because of the relationship we seek with our members, ICPI may send them periodic updates and announcements via e-mail. We may also make an occasional telephone call (e.g. to clear up a problem or inquire about a lapsed membership).

ICPI members have their own online opt-out section where they can opt out of third party print mailings and ICPI e-mail announcements; they can also specify their preferred telephone number and mailing address.

RESTRICTED ACCESS WEB PAGES

Some areas of this website are restricted to ICPI members. These areas require users to log in using company name and member ID or password. This login information is not collected or tracked; it is used solely to verify that a person is authorized to use a particular website resource.

ANONYMOUS INFORMATION COLLECTED ONLINE

Generally speaking, you can visit the ICPI website without revealing any personal information about yourself or your company. We do keep a record of all server activity, which means that every page, image, or other type of file requested by your browser is written into a log file. Each entry in the log contains, among other things, information about the computer you're using to connect to the Internet ("IP address") and about your browser (e.g. which version of Internet Explorer you're using). It does not, however tell us anything about you personally. We use aggregate data from the web logs to determine how the site's resources are being used and to refine its navigating structure. If the need arises, we may use the logs to trace the source of abusive or illicit activity. We do not share our web logs with any outside party.

COOKIES

A “cookie” is a text file, stored on your computer, that includes information that identifies that computer and can be retrieved by our server to create a seamless browsing session. Most cookies used on the ICPI site are deleted when your browser is shut down or in a fixed amount of time, whichever occurs sooner. Members-only pages and other restricted areas use this type of cookie.

Most browsers accept cookies by default. If you set your browser to reject all cookies, these areas and others may not function properly. Most browsers have a setting whereby the browser alerts you when a server attempts to place a cookie in your hard drive; you are given the option of accepting or rejecting it.

For more information about cookies, visit the U.S. government site. ???
